Booze ban to control alcohol-fuelled 'yobs'

Disco stars shine

TWO young disco dancers have become national champions – the first ever to come from their dance school. Eleven-year-olds Nicola Sellers, from Haverhill, and Jessica Christie, from Kedington, won the under 12's bronze and below rock-and-roll section at the Imperial Society of Teachers of Dancing event.

They were accompanied to the disco freestyle grand finals held in Guildford by Ronnie Walford, their trainer at the Lane Dance Centre in Haverhill, as well as principal Marion Lane, and 10 other pupils who all qualified for the finals. Mrs Walford said: "It is the first time we have been to the grand finals in seven years. Everyone who entered had to qualify in their area competition to get there. They are our first national champions and we are very pleased with them, and all the other dancers who did very well too."

DRINKING could be banned in large parts of Haverhill's town centre next year, in a bid to cut down on alcohol related crime and anti-social behaviour.

Suffolk Police, St Edmundsbury Borough Council and Haverhill Town Council have worked together to establish a designated alcohol-free zone in the town, which would come into effect from next February if endorsed by consultation in December and January.

Members of the borough council's cabinet approved the plan in principle at their meeting on Wednesday. The ban would make public consumption of alcohol in the designated areas an offence.

A report to councillors said Haverhill town centre was suffering from significant levels of "yobbish" anti-social behaviour because of the public consumption of alcohol. The bad behaviour took the form of verbal abuse and urinating in public, particularly in the Jubilee Walk and bus station area.

Complaints had also been received from licensees and other businesses in the town about how the issue was affecting residents' quality of life and giving a negative view of the town. This was discouraging people from using the town centre, especially in the evening.

'I'm happy to let the world see my scars'

IT FEELS like you're going to explode if you can't let it out somehow," says Clare Baker, describing how it feels to cut herself. "It's a way of releasing an emotion you can't explain, like letting air out of a balloon."

On Saturday, 20-year-old Clare took part in a charity lingerie show to raise money for Breast Cancer Care and Cancer Research UK. Although her body revealed her own personal struggle, she had no qualms about letting the world know the truth.

"My scars tell people there are others that have been through it, that it's not something to be ashamed of," she says defiantly. "People say, why don't you cover them up? But you wouldn't get rid of a scar from an accident would you? It's an illness, you can't help it. I don't think I should have to hide them."

Five years ago, the young sales assistant from Steeple Bumpstead was diagnosed with depression. Just months later, she began to self-harm. With no idea why she became depressed, and offered no support other than pills, she found her own ways to cope.

"I can't remember how it started. It was about finding a way out and I did anything I could think of. Some people smoke, some people break things, but this worked for me, so I carried on doing it. I did it at least once or twice a week, usually when someone had let me down or made me feel really angry."

Studying for her GCSEs at Saffron Walden County High School, Clare kept her problems a secret from her friends and family.

"I did it on places people wouldn't see, like my arms, thighs and on my side – places that are covered and you wouldn't think were out of the ordinary to cover," she says. "I used to wear long sleeves, which could hurt a bit."

Although she hasn't cut herself since July this year, Clare doesn't believe she will ever be free of the destructive disorder.

"I don't think it's something that ever truly goes away," she says. "There will always be something to bring it back."

Clare's depression began after she caught a cold. "While I was ill I didn't want to go out and do things and then, when I got better, I still felt like that." Usually a confident and sociable girl, Clare began to react badly to mild bullying at school, which she says was out of character. "My mum realised something was wrong when I was getting hassle and it really got to me. Usually that sort of thing wouldn't affect me."

Gradually, Clare's moods got worse and she was unable to leave the house.

"Normally I love going out and seeing people, but I began just randomly crying and didn't want to go out. I wouldn't let myself go to school. I'd get up and get ready to go but when I had to go I'd start crying and couldn't physically leave."

Clare says that cutting was a way of relieving the relentless feelings of depression which consumed her everyday life. "A lot of the time I just felt numb – not happy or sad. Cutting myself was a way of reminding me that I could feel stuff. And it didn't hurt. I don't know why."

After several months, Clare's mum Cathy finally found out.

"She came to wake me up in the morning and the sleeve of my t-shirt was a little bit further up than normal. She said: 'Oh my god ... what have you done?'" But it's one of those things you can't really explain. To be honest, it wasn't so much that I didn't want her to know, more that I didn't want it to affect her."

Clare watched as her mum began to break down.

"She couldn't eat breakfast because she'd thrown it up and that meant she couldn't work properly because she hadn't eaten and had lost weight. I didn't stop for me – I stopped for her."

Clare started to attend private counselling and tried to leave the habit behind her. She began A-levels at Cambridge Regional College, where she found a new boyfriend.

"I met Dom in my second year when I was 18. He was really nice, really helpful and always put me first. If I started crying he'd ask if I was okay and then carry on talking to everyone else while holding my hand, and that was all I needed."

"Then we moved in together and it got worse. Something as little as him wanting to go out with his mates and have fun would make me feel like he was abandoning me. Of course, it was my depression that made me feel like that but eventually it put too much pressure on him. He felt like he couldn't do what he wanted to do. If I asked him to come round and he said no, he knew it would upset me. We both knew it wasn't fair on him."

Ironically, Clare only truly started getting better once she and Dom had broken up.

"I had to start doing things for myself. Often if I find something to do with myself for 10 minutes, then the feeling that I want to cut myself will go. There was a time when, if my mum hadn't seen me for five minutes, she'd be like 'are you alright?' but she's fine now."

Currently working in a city centre computer store to raise money for the future, Clare plans to be a scene-of-the-crime officer.

"It's what they do on the American television programme, CSI," she says. "I did a forensics course and started an A-level in criminology but, to be honest, there are no courses for scene-of-the-crime officers. You don't need formal qualifications. I'm hoping to join the police force when I'm 21 and work my way up."

But on Saturday night, all Clare's thoughts were focused on the catwalk when she joined 23 other amateur models – including her mum – at Next Generation Gym.

"Walking around in underwear is nothing to me compared to the pain that families go through because of this disease," she insists. "Tony, a close family friend of ours, died of cancer. If he was alive now I would do anything to try to find a way to make him better."

Crash was accident

A VERDICT of accidental death has been recorded on a motorcyclist from Haverhill who was killed in a crash in August.

The inquest into the death of Kevin Jones, 30, was held at Lowestoft Magistrates Court on Friday. Documentary evidence at the inquest recorded that Mr Jones, of Hales Barn Road, Haverhill, was riding his blue Suzuki motorcycle near a picnic site on the B1106 road at North Stow when he was involved in a collision with a grey Peugeot. As Mr Jones braked, his front brakes locked and the bike upended before falling over and hitting the car; the inquest heard.

Deadline for spaces

PARENTS of children due to start at an upper or high school in Suffolk next September need to apply for a school place by Friday.

They can apply at www.suffolk.gov.uk/onlineadmissions and will get an email confirming their application has been received.

Car door damaged

A CAR had its driver's door bent back while parked at Clare over night.

The incident happened at Bridewell Street, Clare, between 5.30pm on Monday, October 22, and 7.45am the next morning, to a red Vauxhall Cavalier. Anyone with information about the damage should call Pc Sonia Plume at Clare police on (01284) 774100.

Harley hearse is final ride for bike fan

A LIFE-LONG motorcycle fan made his final journey in a unique Harley-Davidson hearse.

Ralph Brett, 75, always dreamed of riding on one of the classic American motorbikes but could never afford one. His relatives decided it would be a fitting tribute to grant his wish by hiring the special hearse for his funeral.

Former hospital porter Mr Brett, of Recreation Road, Kedington, was taken to his funeral at St Andrew's Church, Great Yeldham, on Tuesday in the hearse hired from a Midlands company.

His grandson, David Jacobs, said: "In his younger days he used to put bikes together. He didn't have much money, and he used to do odd jobs so he could buy bikes.

"He loved speed and would often watch motorbike racing at Snetterton.

"He always loved Harley-Davidsons but could never afford one.

"When we were discussing the funeral arrangements I remembered I had seen a newspaper report about a motorcycle hearse, and I looked it up on the web and found the company that supplies them.

"We thought it would be a perfect fitting tribute for him. He didn't manage to get to ride a Harley while he was alive, but at least he got a ride for his funeral."

■ FINAL RIDE . . . Ralph Brett is taken to his funeral in a Harley Davidson hearse.

Mr Brett, born in Halstead, Essex, previously lived in Sudbury and Hundon. He worked at the Walnutree Hospital in Sudbury until the early 1980s when he had to take early retirement due to health problems. His wife Betty died four years ago. Mr Brett had been in Addenbrooke's Hospital for eight weeks before he died after he had an operation for an aneurysm. He also had prostate cancer. He is survived by his step-daughter Jenny and her two children as well as two nephews in the United States. His family asked for donations to Cancer Research UK.

'Every pub should watch for trouble'

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE chairman of a Pubwatch scheme believes membership of the group should be mandatory for all licensees to help keep troublemakers out of all pubs.

Gordon Mussett, chairman of the Haverhill Pubwatch Scheme and Haverhill's town clerk, suggested the idea to St Edmundsbury Borough Council's licensing and regulatory committee as part of the consultation on amendments to its licensing policy. He also made the same request on behalf of Haverhill Town Council.

Mr Mussett wrote to the committee, saying membership of Pubwatch should be an expectation of all premises licensed for the sale and consumption of alcohol.

Mr Mussett said: "At present membership of Pubwatch is not a requirement for all premises. This means that persons subject to a Pubwatch ban – because, for example, they have assaulted a member of the public whilst drunk – can visit and continue to drink in premises that are not members of Pubwatch.

"This threatens public safety because the 'banned' person can intimidate the designated premises supervisor of a non-Pubwatch premises, and because those premises then attract the 'rougher' element, more likely to be violent whilst under the influence of alcohol."

Mr Mussett also pointed out that Pubwatch meetings are a good mechanism for police and the licensing authority to spread information, which is more difficult if not all licensees attend.

He said that Pubwatch schemes were also involved in staff training, while non-members were more likely to have poorly trained staff and contribute to the issues of under-age drinking and excessive consumption.

But it is unlikely that Mr Mussett's plan will be taken up when amendments to the licensing policy are considered at a meeting on Monday.

A report to the committee suggests no action be taken as signing up to a Pubwatch scheme is already included in guidelines to licensees, but cannot be a requirement as there is no provision for standard conditions.

Police welcome booze ban bid

A police report said officers were spending a disproportionate amount of time dealing with the problems. It also found that alcohol bans had worked well in other places, including a similar scheme adopted in Stowmarket.

Figures in the document showed the number of alcohol related offences from January last year to March this year in Haverhill was 266, compared with 149 in Stowmarket. This included 24 assaults on police in Haverhill, but none in Stowmarket.

The report concluded: "It is clear to see that the implementation of an alcohol ban within Haverhill is necessary.

"A reflection of this is that 33 per cent of all alcohol-related crimes reported and recorded by police were committed within the High Street area."

Inspector Adrian Dawson, district inspector for Haverhill, said: "I would fully support an alcohol ban in Haverhill town centre as this would, in my opinion, lead to a significant decrease in crime reported and lead to an increase in public confidence in relation to crime within this busy and high profile area of Haverhill."

Top crops defy poor season

DESPITE a bad growing season some prizewinning specimens of fruit and vegetables were produced for the annual Clare Horticultural Society Autumn Show.

The event took place at Clare Town Hall on Saturday with judges making their decisions in the morning and the doors open to the public in the afternoon. There was a high level of entries and competition was fierce for the many cups and prizes on offer, including some for cookery, floral, wine and children's classes.

Anyone interested in joining the society can get more information from Secretary Olive Smith on (01787) 277082.

Plans to clear up estate

LOCAL residents are invited to roll up their sleeves and clean up their area at a special environmental day on the Parkway estate in Haverhill.

Pc Will Wright, the local beat officer, is organising the clean-up on Monday, November 19, along with the Parkway Residents Association, Havebury Housing, Haverhill Town Council and local schools.

As well as litter picking, there will also be two skips: one in the Squires Court car park and one at the top of School Lane, with an amnesty so that people can get rid of all white goods such as washing machines they may have difficulty transporting.

Pc Wright said: "We want people to come along and help smarten up their community. I hope to get children involved to show them it does not have to be a punishment, it can be a positive thing to do. They can see just how much litter collects and give something back to where they live or go to school."

People wanting to join in can meet at St Felix church at 10am. Litter pickers will be provided by St Edmundsbury Borough Council's waste management department.

Boy breaks leg at new play centre

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PARENTS have raised safety concerns after their four-year-old son broke his leg at an indoor children's play centre.

Tai Rose hurt himself as he was playing with his cousin at the Boomerangs Play Centre in Boundary Road, Haverhill.

His parents Sarah and Justin, who were sitting close by, took him home and when he was still in pain they whisked him to West Suffolk Hospital where doctors discovered he had broken his tibia and fibula.

The schoolboy will now have to wear plaster for eight weeks and was unable to return to school because he was in too much pain.

Mr Rose is now calling for a health and safety investigation into the accident to establish exactly how it happened.

Tai's four-year-old cousin Sonny was the only witness to the incident and Tai told his parents that his leg had become trapped.

Mr Rose said: "We had taken him there for a treat because he had been such a good boy, but we were only there for 20 minutes. We were in the parent area when Sonny came over and said Tai had hurt himself."

"Some older children helped him over and we tried to calm him down because he was pretty upset. We took him home, but we knew he was not right, so we took him to the hospital."

"We had no indication before that he had broken anything. We are concerned about how it happened, you think they are safe in these places. You expect them to get the odd bump or bruise, but not to come out with a broken leg.

"My wife has been down there and they filled out an accident form, but that is about it. We want to make sure it doesn't happen to anyone else."

Donna Anderson, who opened Boomerangs in September with her husband Andy, said the incident had been reported to the authorities and was being fully investigated, but she could not comment further at present.

Slipway 'cash scam' warning

A TOWN councillor is warning people to be aware of an apparent scam targeting motorists.

Coun Margaret Marks, a member of Haverhill Town Council, was travelling from the Four Went Ways junction at Abington towards the A505 when she came across two cars stopped in the slipway. A man of Middle Eastern appearance was "frantically" waving at her to stop.

Coun Marks, who leads Haverhill's first responder volunteers, pulled over, fearing someone had been hurt. The man spoke in German and said he had to get back to Calais and needed money to buy fuel as a cash machine had swallowed his card.

Coun Marks drove off after handing over some cash but was horrified to see the man flagging down other cars. She returned to confront the man, who threw her money back at her before speeding off.

Coun Marks said: "He started taking off rings and bracelets to give to me and saying his children were hungry. It all seemed perfectly plausible at the time and it was only when I saw him flagging down other drivers that I realised it was a scam.

"I reported it to the police and I did get my money back, but I wanted to warn others that this seems to be the latest scam.

"I am not the only person it has happened to. I spoke to someone else who was stopped on the M11 and took this person in his car to a garage. They could have had a gun or a knife and it could have been very serious."

A Cambridgeshire police spokesperson said: "We would advise motorists to be cautious of this practice and to use judgement before handing over any money."

SAM'S THE WORD

News from Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College

AS EVERYONE settles back into the school routine after half-term, the school calendar has been filled with events.

Several students have gone to Ehringshausen in Germany as part of the school's German exchange programme. This involves the students staying with a German family for a week as well as seeing some local sites. We hope they enjoy their time in Germany and they learnt a lot from this experience.

■ Last week, Year 9 geography students got the chance to visit a rainforest exhibition in Berkshire. They learnt about conserving the rainforest and the type of species that live there. We hope they gained some valuable knowledge on the subject.

■ Sixth formers had a trip to a university last Tuesday. They went to the University of East Anglia in Norwich to see what university life there is like. Hopefully, they found this visit useful as they prepare their applications to university.

■ BTEC sport students have taken part in a first aid course. This saw them learn various skills and also placed them in different situations when they might have to be used. We hope they learnt a lot from this in case they may have to ever use these skills in the future.

■ There has been several sports fixtures recently, especially in football where Year 9 produced a memorable performance to win 7-2 against Thurston. Year 10 were also successful when they beat Bungay 7-1. Unfortunately, Year 11 lost to Mildenhall 5-1 in their last match. Congratulations to all those who participated.

■ Open evening is on Wednesday for students in Year 8 who would like to see the school before they move up from middle school next year.

Axeing schools a big mistake, says union

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE county's largest teaching union has branded plans to axe all Suffolk middle schools "outdated", "disasterous" and "a huge mistake" as the second stage of a huge consultation exercise begins.

Haverhill is set to be one of the first towns to lose its middle schools by 2011/2012 if the controversial plan goes ahead, with a new two-tier system creating 11-16 schools and sixth-form colleges instead.

Chalkstone, Castle Hill and Parkway Middle Schools would close in Haverhill, as well as Clare Middle School. Two middle schools in Newmarket and two more in Mildenhall are also due to close, and consultation in that area will take place at a later date.

Suffolk NUT, the largest of the teacher unions with 3,000 members in the county, believes up to half of pupils would have to leave for further education at age 14 to get the specialist teaching they need.

Suffolk NUT Secretary Martin Goold explained that, from 2008/9 onwards, the idea of separate sixth form and FE programmes of study will gradually disappear, with the introduction of the new vocational diplomas and curriculums for all students from age 14.

"The plan to downgrade our successful upper/high schools to 11-16 schools will be a disaster and will prove totally inadequate for the new 14-19 curriculum. When the new diplomas come in, there will be no break at 16. Students will have already started vocational diplomas in Year 10, but 11-16 schools will not have the specialist staff to provide this, because those specialist staff will want to be teaching more advanced skills at the FE college or so-called sixth-form centre."

The union believes middle schools could easily be converted to key-stage 3 schools (11-14) or into the 11-14 annexes of the upper/high schools, causing minimum disruption to schools, pupils and staff.

Mr Goold said: "The last thing we need in 2010 is 11-16 schools and sixth-form colleges. It is just replacing one outdated three-tier system with another, which will be outdated before it is created."

The union is also concerned about plans to create huge four-11 primary schools and bus young children around the town. Suffolk NUT said no mention of its expert advice has been made in any feedback.

Mr Goold said: "The officers of the authority have carefully edited out all criticism of 11-16 schools from the feedback from consultation to ensure that the politicians are shielded from the inconvenient truth that they have been very badly advised and are about to set up multi-million pound white elephants."

Have say on schools plan

MEMBERS of the public can have their say in the second stage consultation period running for 12 weeks until January 18 2008, with public meetings at schools, plus material also available from libraries, council buildings and www.suffolk.gov.uk/sor

The meetings, all from 8:30pm-9pm unless otherwise stated, are: Monday, November 12, Hundon CP School, 4pm, Thurlow CEVCP School; Tuesday, November 13, Westfield CP School, Place Farm CP School; Thursday, November 15, Coupals Primary School, Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College; Monday, November 19, Kedington Primary School, Clare Middle School; Tuesday, November 20, Burton End CP School, Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College; Thursday, November 22, Clare CP School, Parkway Middle School; Monday, November 26, Wickhambrook CP School; Wednesday, November 28, New Cangle CP School, St Felix RCP School; Thursday, November 29, Castle Hill Community Middle School, Glemsford CP School; Tuesday, December 4, Clements CP School, 6.30pm; Wednesday, December 5, Chalkstone Middle School.

New flats plan

PLANS to build new flats at a former Anglian Water site in Haverhill have been submitted to planners.

The application to St Edmundsbury Borough Council is for a residential development of 27 flats in two three-storey blocks, provision of parking and alterations to existing vehicle and pedestrian routes, following demolition of the existing building at Anglian House, Burton End, Haverhill.

Time change bid

CHANGES to opening times at an Indian restaurant in Clare are the subject of a planning application made to St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

Mr A Sultan applied to vary conditions of his planning permission and amend opening hours to noon to 2.30pm and 5.30pm to midnight on Fridays and Saturdays, and noon to 2.30pm and 5.30pm to 11pm on Mondays to Thursdays at the restaurant in High Street.

Bingo success

A BINGO session held at Sainsbury's restaurant in Haverhill late last month raised £275 for the East Anglian Air Ambulance.

The events are regularly run by the Hanchett Village Residents' Association and organisers thanked everyone who took part or made donations.

Taking plunge for charity

OSTEOPATH Christine Jefferys overcame her fear of heights to leap from a plane at 10,000ft and raise cash for an elderly people's centre.

Christine, 30, who works at Wilbur's Gym in Haverhill, handed over a cheque for £746 to Age Concern at the Greenfields Day Centre in Haverhill following her sponsored sky dive in September.

Christine's mother, Teri, manages the day centre, which provides a weekly meeting place for pensioners.

Christine, who lives at Kedington, donated her sponsorship to the centre because she feels elderly people often get forgotten. She did her tandem sky dive, freefalling at 120mph for 5,000ft, from an airfield at Attleborough in Norfolk, and despite her dread of heights, actually enjoyed the experience.

She said: "It was pretty scary, especially as I hate heights, but I managed to do it and it was a brilliant feeling. You get to jump for half price if you do it again in three months, so I might even do another one!

"The worst thing was waiting to jump out of the plane. It was a real challenge for me, but I am glad I confronted my fears. I did better than I thought I would - there are a lot of generous people out there."

Councillor quits seat

HAVERHILL town councillor Sheena Martin has resigned due to ill health.

Coun Martin represented the East Haverhill ward and her seat will be advertised as a causal vacancy. An election will be held if it is requested by 10 or more electors before noon on November 19, or another councillor will be co-opted on to the council. A by-election is already due to take place on December 6 for the Haverhill West seat previously vacated by Lesley Samples, if more than one nomination is received.

Scratch damage

A CAR was scratched along its driver's side while parked in Haverhill.

The grey VW Passat was damaged while it was in Elmhurst Close, Haverhill, between 5pm on Saturday, October 27, and 1pm on Sunday. Anyone with information about the damage can call Pc Stuart Wilson at the Haverhill South safer neighbourhood team on (01284) 774100.

Investment set to bring new jobs

NEW jobs are on the way to Haverhill after a flooring company's £800,000 expansion to its factory.

During the past 18 months, ARDEX UK, based in Homefield Road, has been investing in a large factory extension and the creation of a new distribution centre. There are also plans for a £1.4 million plant upgrade.

Paul Goldspink, operations director at the firm, said: "With our company-wide investments during 2007 in the factory, together with new personnel, we aim to ensure our gold standard customer service not only meets, but surpasses the strict measures we set ourselves."

ARDEX has been operating from its base in Haverhill since 1982 and currently employs 85 people.

Scheme to watch out for speeders

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

TOWN councillors in Haverhill could soon help catch speeding drivers if a new Roadsafe scheme is adopted.

Members of the council's Community First Committee were this week to consider whether to join the Community Speed Watch scheme.

In the do-it-yourself scheme active members of the community monitor speed at selected locations with Home Office-approved speed detection devices. Information is passed to the police and a letter sent to the owner of any speeding vehicle, warning them of the dangers of breaking the speed limit.

It is part of a new Suffolk Roadside Partnership project aimed at reducing road casualties and promoting road safety. Suffolk Police, the county council, fire and ambulance service, Suffolk Safety Camera Partnership and the Highways Agency are all involved.

The partnership has launched a county-wide Speed Watch initiative to address speed related problems. The schemes are self-funding, raising cash to pay for signs and high visibility jackets. But with speed detection devices alone costing £2,200 some councils work together and share the equipment.

Chief Inspector Martin Barnes-Smith, of Suffolk Police's road policing unit, said: "The main objective of the scheme is to secure a reduction in the numbers of drivers exceeding the speed limit but also to encourage community engagement and partnership work."

"To this end Suffolk Police are looking to link in work within the schemes by PSCOs. This will subsequently reduce the number of people killed or seriously injured on Suffolk's roads, reduce traffic noise and pollution in local communities and help to increase public awareness of inappropriate speed."

■ EXCELLENT MARKS . . . Billy Down collects his award from Peter Miller, commercial director of exam group Edexcel.

Building on success

AFTER achieving excellent marks in a new GCSE construction exam, Billy Down is taking his studies in a totally new direction and is hoping to become a doctor.

The 16-year-old former Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College students got five A's, 3As and four Bs. Billy was one of a group of students taking part in a pilot six-part exam in construction. He ended up with marks that put him in the top 10 scores from more than 2,000 students with two of his papers. Billy, of Ruffles Road, Haverhill, recently travelled to London to receive a Top 10 Exam Mark (Surveying and Construction Processes and Technology) award at the Construction and the Built Environment GCSE Awards.

Billy is now at Hills Road Sixth Form College in Cambridge studying four A levels. He then hopes to go on to study for a degree in medicine.

"Construction was not a top priority subject, but it was a new exam and it will add a bit of variety to my CV."

"I was gob-smacked to get top 10 marks in it and to receive the award. It might come in handy if I decided to become an architect or something one day."

The awards, held at the Institution of Civil Engineers Building, were an opportunity to celebrate the success and achievements of the first wave of students to complete the GCSE course.

Billy was among 54 students recognised and presented with an award at the event. Sir Michael Latham, chairman of ConstructionSkills, said: "It is extremely important to recognise the achievements of these young people who represent the future of UK construction. The GCSE is important because it is one of the first new qualifications in construction and the built environment for young people."

Partners to provide PCs

A NEW computer shop has stepped in to support a voluntary scheme to take laptops to housebound and disabled people.

The Haverhill Association of Voluntary Organisations (HAVO) has been running its laptop project for the past four years, providing laptop loan and basic training to people in the Haverhill area. It is seeking funding to extend the area the scheme covers.

Last week, HAVO announced that it is teaming up with computer company Levtec, which recently opened a shop in Queen Street. Support was previously provided by Compucentre and HAVO thanked them for their input, as well as Levtec for stepping in to fill the gap left by their closure.

A spokesman for Levtec said they had been providing PC systems to local charities for several months and were pleased to be able to extend their support for the local community. Anyone who would like to help with the project and can spare a few hours should contact Michael Simpkin on (01440) 714 641 or pop in to the Levtec shop in Queen Street.

Waste plans get go-ahead

CONTROVERSIAL plans for a massive waste incinerator in Suffolk are to go ahead despite strong opposition.

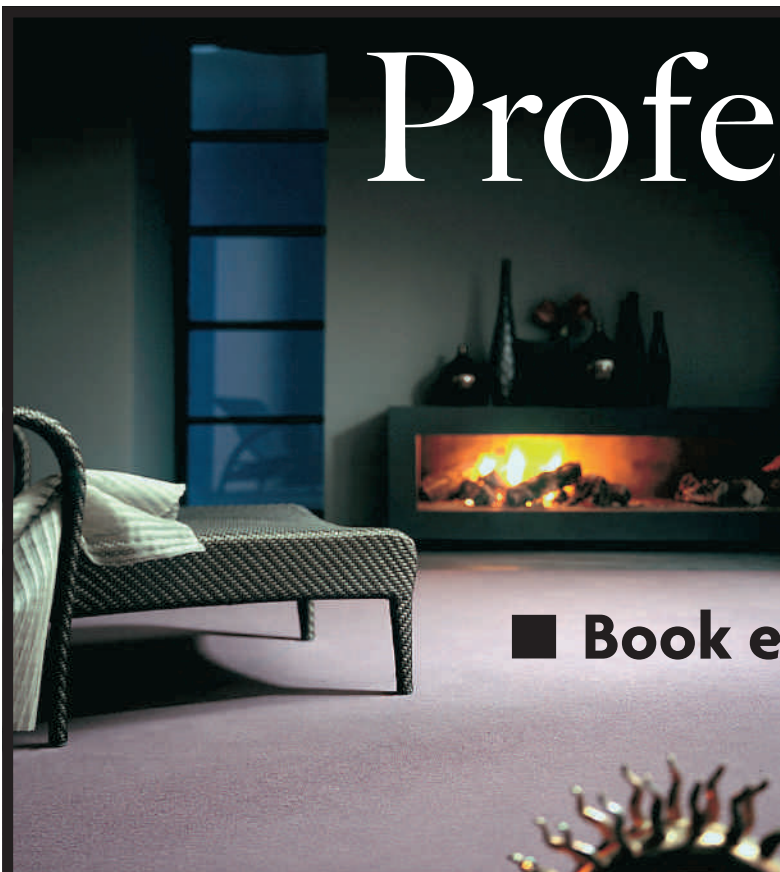

The Labour Group on Suffolk County Council said the Conservative administration's decision to rush the plans through without detailed study or revealing a proposed site was reckless and exposed the county to huge financial risk.

But Coun Eddy Alcock said the plan reflected the wishes of Suffolk residents, with a recent survey involving 8,000 Suffolk people showing that 63 per cent supported Energy from Waste through incineration.

Labour councillors claim the half-billion pound project was rushed through despite questions about cost, siting, emissions and timescales.

Mandy Martin, Labour leader for the environment, waste and economic development, said: "The Conservatives' reckless approach to the risks of waste incineration is startling.

"The uncertainty surrounding the project's planning and its huge price tag are of great concern."

New police unit on watch

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A NEW police unit has been set up to monitor Suffolk's most dangerous criminals – including 413 registered sex offenders.

Suffolk Constabulary's new Public Protection Directorate has been established at the headquarters of the Suffolk probation service.

It will keep a close eye on the county's most dangerous offenders through the area's Multi Agency Public Protection Arrangements (MAPPA) – a Home Office partnership between police and the prison and probation services.

The directorate has been set up to strengthen MAPPA's public protection work, which is aimed at reducing the risks posed to others from registered sex offenders and other potentially dangerous people.

Detective Sergeant Duncan, who is in charge of nine police public protection officers keeping a close eye out across the county, described the scheme as a "big investment of resources" and said: "We moved to offices at Suffolk Probation to greatly enhance the flow of information between the two agencies and support the MAPPA process by being more actively involved in it."

"It is a big investment of resources by Suffolk Constabulary. It will ensure better management of registered sex offenders and potentially dangerous people."

Suffolk MAPPA's annual report shows there are 527 offenders living in Suffolk whose cases are being managed by MAPPA, including 413 registered sex offenders, 102 violent offenders or non-registered sex offenders and 12 other criminals. None committed a serious sexual or violent offence in 2006/07.

The number of registered sex offenders in the community rose from 393 in 2006 to 413 in 2007. Of these just 8 per cent were considered to pose a high risk of harm, and none of them committed a further offence.

Kedington

AT THE morning service at the parish church of St Peter and St Paul on Sunday surprise presentations were made to long serving members of the church. Leslie Goode, and Fred Phillips MBE have both stood down as parochial church council members, and Lay Elders after a long period of service.

Both were presented with an appropriately worded framed plaque, with a picture of the church in the background, by churchwardens Mary Upton and Beryl Bracken. A similar presentation was made to Edna Janovskis, who had been church organist for 30 years until forced to step down due to ill health.

Notice was also given by the rector of the church about an autumn bazaar to be held at the community centre on Saturday, November 24, at 2pm, with an appeal for contributions for the numerous stalls planned, plus Santa's Grotto. There was also a request for stall holders to wear something red.

■ In perfect weather conditions for an evening out, crowds flocked to the third annual firework and fun night held at the community centre on Saturday evening, organised by the Kedington Community Association

Tiny tots take care of teddies

SOME poorly teddies got some expert care when youngsters from a play group were paid a visit by a veterinary nurse.

The children at the Happy Faces group in Colne Valley Road, Haverhill, were shown some bandaging techniques on their toys and given some tips about caring for cats and dogs, as well as other pets.

Elaine Hatfield, leader of the group said: "He was fantastic with the children, they really loved it. He had brought a big box full of stethoscopes and bandages and he gave them stickers. They had all brought along their fluffy toy dogs and cats, as well as some giraffes and monkeys. He let them use the stethoscope and showed them how to put bandages on, then he told them how to look after their pets. It was part of a topic on small animals we have been doing and it was brilliant."

The Happy Faces group cater for pre-school children. For information about whether places are available contact leader Elaine Hatfield on (01440) 762515.

Remembrance Sunday, parade of Royal British Legion (RBL) and organisations, assemble outside the Barnadiston Arms at 10.20am prior to parading to the church at 10.30am for wreath laying and remembrance of the fallen at the war memorial at 10.50am. This will be followed by a Thursday, November 15: RBL AGM, Legion Hall, 7pm. Friday, November 16: Quiz night, Community Centre, details to follow.

■ A general meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the Legion Hall on Thursday, chaired by vice president Gailie Baker, in the absence of the president Val Farthing.

Members were reminded of the various activities which had taken place during the year, and reports were given of meetings attended.

The committee, including Val, was re-elected en bloc. The evening was rounded off with a fish and chip supper, and some good friends to talk with.

Members reported it was a very pleasant social occasion.

HAVERHILL Electrical has expanded over its 30 years of business – much like the town itself.

The electrical business based on Spring Rise, Falconer Road in Haverhill serves the town and surrounding villages with a wide selection of electrical goods and a friendly efficient service.

Barry Skates took over the business nine years ago and has built it up to be very successful. Recently the company was the main supplier for the new Days Inn Hotel off the Haverhill by-pass.

Barry moved to Haverhill in 1972 to work for weighing machine makers Herbert's, but soon afterwards went into business himself and has done all kinds of jobs since then, even running a market stall for a time.

He has always been active in community life, a former trainer at Haverhill Boxing Club and former chairman of Haverhill Rovers he has also been involved with the local Conservative Club and has been the chairman of the former Square Peg club twice. He has also helped raise thousands of pounds for charity including Guide Dogs for the Blind and Cancer Care.

Barry says: "We supply a lot of local factories and businesses and the general public, with anything from a fuse to a full lighting system. We have got our own expertise within the company, but if it is called for in a big system, we bring in specialist help. We have grown with the town, and I have grown with the town. My family live here and my grand-children are all born and bred Haverhill people. Our trademark is 'A Haverhill company for Haverhill people'."

Christmas lists aren't just for kids

■ WISH LISTS . . . help avoid disappointments.

WE should all choose our own Christmas presents this year and do both our loved ones and the world a favour, say consumer experts.

How many times do we open a parcel from a friend or relation, to find our heart sinking at its contents? And while our mouth says: "Oh, how lovely", we actually plan to consign the unwanted gift to a dark and dusty cupboard, adding to piles of waste all over the globe.

Consumer experts and authors of a new shopping guide, Maggie Davis and Charlotte Williamson have the solution - write your own letter to Santa.

"Tell people exactly what you would like," suggests Maggie. "I really don't think there is a problem with that these days and it certainly makes sense. After all, wedding lists are quite acceptable and it avoids unwanted gifts and saves on waste."

"You can avoid that horrible situation in January where you are returning unwanted gifts, giving them to charity shops or just hiding them away in a 'guilt cupboard' only to be brought out when the giver comes to visit - if you remember."

"We are very against the consumer culture of just buying lots of things we don't need for the sake of spending. Although our book is called 101 Things to Buy Before You Die, we don't mean you should try to acquire everything. What we do say is select quality items."

They suggest searching for the very best, both for yourself and your loved ones, and buying presents that will both be used and appreciated.

Even looking at the Christmas gift staples of chocolate, smellies and underwear (for women) or socks, underwear and wallets (for men) there is the right way and the wrong way.

Maggie adds: "People do appreciate a bit of luxury and going to the right places - or sending your partner to them - will save both of you disappointment on Christmas Day. Women's lingerie is always a tricky one but quality stores will provide a quality service and steer a nervous male away from making a bad purchase."

As well as writing your own quality Christmas wish-list, Maggie suggests employing the same strategy for your friends and family this year.

■ SMILES ALL ROUND . . . make sure it's a proper one by buying quality.

She says: "If you are giving a gift it's nice to get something that's going to last, or treat someone to a luxury small item that they might not justify buying for themselves - like some gorgeous soap or gourmet olive oil. If you don't spend too much money on yourself as a rule, it's nice to be spoiled at Christmas and it really doesn't have to cost the earth."

101 Things to Buy Before You Die is available now priced £16.99.

Ex-gastro pub reopens as a foxy blues venue

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE blues could soon be coming to Haverhill, as a former gastro pub is transformed into a new restaurant and entertainment venue that hopes to attract top jazz acts.

Sturmer businessman Daniel Hannan's SHF Group is taking over The Fox bar and restaurant at Little Wratting from previous owners Spice Inns, who closed it down last month less than a year after it opened.

SHF owns the Footlights Restaurant at Cambridge's Grafton centre, the Comfort Café at Abington, and other leisure, media and hospitality interests.

Mr Hannan is a director of the Edinburgh Fringe Festival and is also involved with a number of other events. He plans to bring top acts to Little Wratting by adding the venue on to existing tour schedules.

SHF Group's vision for The Fox includes live jazz bands, cabaret shows and stand-up comedy nights.

Mr Hannan said: "I have lived at Sturmer for 21 years and never invested in Haverhill before.

"I am really pleased to be doing so now as I believe that Haverhill is improving and that this is a very under-represented end of the market.

"We've always wanted to invest in the town, but it was just a question of finding the right property. We want to offer something a bit different so people don't stay in Cambridge after work to eat, but feel comfortable coming back here. We're not trying to be posh or pretentious, I think it's important the area is better represented.

"I believe it will represent the new Haverhill and I am very supportive of the CB9 campaign. We believe The Fox will retain its position as the premier restaurant facility in the area and will benefit from our policy of providing live entertainment in a cabaret style environment, while offering good food and excellent value for money."

Spice Inns managing director Barry Hilton said: "SHF Group came in with an offer that made us think and after a full review we believe the deal provides benefit to all concerned."

Following the fitting of a new sound stage and lighting system, The Fox is due to reopen its doors today.

Love and laughs come to the big screen

THE Haverhill Silver Band will step on stage at the Haverhill Arts Centre on Sunday. Friends of the band have chosen the music for the concert, which starts at 8pm.

■ There's still time to get your hands on tickets for Colette's Entertainment School's 2007 show, Bringing Down The House.

The show is based around Colette's life in music. The Friday and Saturday night shows are sold out but there are still a few tickets left for the Saturday matinee at 2.30pm.

■ Gerard Depardieu returns to the screen next Tuesday at 7.45pm as a middle-aged resident singer and celebrity at the local dance hall in The Singer (12A). He is stuck in a routine of regular gigs, crooning for fifty-something female fans and it seems he has reached the limit of what he can achieve in life. Then out of the blue he meets and falls for a single mother half his age. Can the great chemistry survive?

■ It's not easy to win back a woman after leaving her at the altar, but when overweight Dennis Doyle (Simon Pegg) finally realises just what a mistake he's made, he vows to run a high profile marathon in order to convince his ex-fiancée that the rich handsome man she is about to marry isn't the guy for her. If you fancy a laugh, Run Fat Boy, Run (12A) is showing next Wednesday at 7.45pm.

■ Superbad (15), showing next Thursday at 7.45pm, is a tale of best friends Evan and Seth, who are forced to contemplate a life apart when they go to different colleges. One is sweet and smart, the other foul-mouthed, volatile and consumed with the topic of human sexuality. This coming-of-age comedy is a story of their misguided attempts to reverse a lifelong losing streak with the ladies in one panic driven night.

■ For more details about the shows, or to book tickets, phone (01440) 714140 or go to www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk

Chuckling with Chuck

FUNNYMAN Charlie Chuck comes to the Jesterlarf Comedy Club at the Junction in Cambridge tomorrow. Known to Vic and Bob fans for his turn as Uncle Peter on the duo's 90s TV show, The Smell of Reeves and Mortimer, his routines can be as confusing as they are hilarious. Support comes from Higgins, James Branch and Quincy.

Tickets are £11. To book call (01223) 511 511.

Dark return

THE play that inspired Lars Von Trier's movie, Dogville, comes to the ADC Theatre in Cambridge next week. The Visit, by Friedrich Dürrenmatt, sees a billionaire returning to her home town in Eastern Europe. Her arrival causes ripples of excitement but stirs dark secrets and old scores which need settling.

The play runs from Tuesday until November 17, at 7.45pm.

For tickets, £6-£9, call (01223) 300 085 or visit www.adctheatre.com

Humph trumpets in a diamond new year

By Jo Deeks

JAZZ legend Humphrey Lyttelton and his Band will be in concert at Haverhill Arts Centre on Saturday, November 24, at 8pm.

Humph, as he is often known, is a man of many talents. A Radio 2 and Radio 4 stalwart, his incredibly varied career has seen him serve as an officer of the Grenadier guards, work as a cartoonist for the Daily Mail and as a journalist for Punch, The Field and Highlife. He has also written seven books, formed a record company and is the President of The Society for Italic Handwriting.

But he is most famous for his jazz trumpet, or, as Louis Armstrong noted: "That boy is comin' on."

His passion for jazz began in 1936; he formed his first band 12 years later and in 1949, signed a recording contract with EMI. In 1956, his self-written Bad Penny Blues was the first British jazz record to enter the Top 20 and in January 2008, he will celebrate 60

■ HIGH NOTE . . . in 2008 Humphrey Lyttelton will celebrate 60 continuous years as a bandleader. CP unbroken years as a bandleader. With his jazz hat on Humph and his band are renowned for their versatility with a repertoire that ranges from early traditional to modern jazz by way of Duke Ellington and Count Basie. And his trademark dead-pan wit and amusing anecdotes are never far behind.

■ Humphrey Lyttelton and his Band regularly play to packed houses and tickets, priced £17.00, are expected to sell out fast. To book now, call the box office on (01440) 714140.

Celebrate someone who was a light in your life – as a star forever

Mark and Lucy are remembering their gran

Many of us have lost someone dear to us – someone we'll be thinking of at Christmas.

But this year, instead of mourning their passing, why not celebrate their life and remember the good times you spent with a friend, family member or loved one.

Just ask for your Lights of Love star from your local Sue Ryder Care shop (or go online at www.suerydercare.org/lightsoflove), write a dedication on it and hang it on your Christmas tree.

We'll also send you a special lapel pin and the name of your loved one could appear in our special tribute in The Times newspaper.

Someone you've lost wouldn't want you to be sad at this time of year – so get in touch today and you can celebrate them with a Light of Love.

Lights of Love

You can also make your dedication online at www.suerydercare.org/lightsoflove or call 0845 050 1953

HAVERHILL WEEKLY NEWS

MOTORING

Volvo turns on the style

VOLVO has let its normally restricted designers run wild. The sleek XC60 concept, which was unveiled at Detroit Motor Show earlier this year, made its first UK appearance at the recent MPH '07 Show.

The crossover coupe/SUV promises to give a glimpse of Volvo's design direction and will be similar to the actual XC60, expected to be available early 2009.

Volvo Car's Concept Centre,

■ SAFE SURFING . . . Volvo's coastguard support concept.

■ VOLVO XC60 . . . crossover vehicle has made its UK debut.

responsible for designing the show car, has produced a number of designs and details that have gone on to make it into production over the past few years, so the XC60 concept will be a very good indication to the future as viewed by Volvo.

Volvo is also well represented at Las Vegas with a surf rescue XC70, a tuned S80, C30 and C70 and a hot-rod built from Volvo parts catching the eyes and imagination of those attending the SEMA Show.

Merc museum sets record with man-made tornado

THE Mercedes-Benz Museum is now officially home to the "strongest artificially generated tornado in the world".

The attempted record was confirmed in the presence of a Guinness Book of Records representative. The 34.4 metre-high artificial tornado serves to eliminate smoke from the museum in the event of a fire.

The architecture of the Mercedes-Benz Museum placed particular demands on construction planners, architects and engineers with regard to smoke elimination. The provisions of the approving authority and fire protection regulations require all areas outside the fire level to be smoke-free in the event of smoke emission. However, due to the open-plan structure of the building, the various exhibition areas are connected to each other without any fire zones via an interior courtyard and ramps.

From the perspective of smoke elimination this presented a challenging task that could not be solved by conventional methods.

It was necessary to take a new approach, and so a unique smoke elimination system was developed especially for the museum. In the event of fire, 144 outlets along the core walls inject air into the interior courtyard. This generates an artificial tornado, and the smoke collected is then discharged into the outside air via a ventilator located at the top of the building.

This procedure uses the principle of the tornado force, which has a devastating effect under natural conditions, to create a controlled life-saving form of fluid mechanics that opens up new architectural possibilities.

Insured drivers
pick up the bill

ALMOST one in 15 cars on Britain's roads is being driven while uninsured, Government figures showed this week.

More than 2.1 million vehicles on UK roads are being driven while uninsured, with opposition MPs accusing ministers of grossly underestimating the severity of the problem and doing little to tackle it.

Liberal Democrat MP Lynne Featherstone said the figures she had been given by the Department for Transport showed a rise of 100,000 in just one year and now amounts to 6.5 per cent of all vehicles in the UK.

Those drivers, she said, were responsible for committing more crimes and often left insured motorists – the "good guys" – picking up the bill through increased premiums.

"As with most crime it is inevitably the law-abiding public that end up footing the bill with uninsured drivers costing us on average £30 more in premiums," said Ms Featherstone.

"I get really really angry that it is always the good guys who are the fall guys."

She went on: "The Government has obviously fallen asleep at the wheel on this one."

"It is government without due care and attention; their policies for pursuing uninsured drivers have been a total failure and it is about time they accepted the facts and took action."

The Department for Transport disputed the rise in the figures, saying there had actually been a 4.2 per cent drop in claims for compensation for the victims of uninsured drivers.

A Parliamentary answer by transport minister Jim Fitzpatrick said: "There are about 2.1 million licensed vehicles (about 6.5 per cent of the UK vehicle fleet) being driven by uninsured drivers.

"We have no long term evidence on trends... and there is some recent evidence from the insurance industry showing that for the year 2006 there was a 4.2 per cent drop in claims for compensation for the victims of uninsured drivers."

A DfT spokesman said new measures – automatic number plate recognition (ANPR) technology and increased powers for police to seize cars – had begun to tackle the problem.

New legislation being brought in would be similar to TV licensing systems where car owners would be tracked by computer if their vehicles were not registered as insured.

ANPR technology, he added, was catching up to 1,500 cars a week.

Figures from the Association of British Insurers show that uninsured drivers are six times more likely to be driving a non road-worthy vehicle, three times more likely to have been convicted of driving without due care and attention and ten times more likely to have been convicted of drink-driving.

An ABI spokesman said any increase in figures may just be more offenders being tracked and caught by police using new powers to take cars off uninsured drivers.

He said: "There is a lot of work going on at the moment to clamp down on it – 50,000 cars are being seized each year."

The costs of uninsured drivers had risen from £200 million in 2005 compared to £164 million in 2003 but the numbers of claims had actually fallen from 37,000 in 2005 to 24,000 last year.

The ABI is also pushing for an increase in the penalties paid by drivers who are caught, who are often fined just £150 for the offence.

Motorists still flouting the law on mobile use despite safety fears

DRIVERS continue to flout the law and use handheld mobile phones while behind the wheel, figures released by a road safety website suggest.

Since stricter penalties were introduced earlier this year, 1,119 drivers have been spotted using a mobile and reported to BetterDrivingPlease.com.

Nearly a quarter of all its bad driving reports involve a mobile phone. Drivers caught by the police face a fine and three penalty points for using a mobile phone.

Andrew McGavin, founder of BetterDrivingPlease.com, said: "Ordinary people want something done about this. They are sick of seeing drivers flout the law so openly."

"The pressure created by reports on the website will force the police to recognise that traffic policing can't be done by speed cameras alone. Policing in-between cameras is failing."

"It's no longer socially acceptable to drink and drive, yet we seem to tolerate drivers focusing more on their phone call than the road in front of them. It has to be tackled and it is the police's job to act."

Check out these hatches

BUYER advice website UsedCarExpert.com turns the focus on the second-hand sector's overlooked hatchbacks.

The website's Matt Tumbridge reckons that buyers who have only £5,000 to spend, and who want a car that can do most things without being clever or special, are in a very good position. Most people, he says, think in terms of a Vauxhall Astra or Ford Focus.

But there are a lot of overlooked mid-range hatchbacks on the used market. So here are the cars you should test drive, advises Tumbridge, with a view to buy:

■ Seat Leon (2002-present) – Leons offer lots of room, are sporty, and also good value. "This hatch offers lots of great engine options and a very comfortable interior. Worth looking out for", states Tumbridge.

Most economical model is the 1.9 Tdi, returning 54.3mpg overall, and best used buy is the 1.6SE

Used CarExpert.com lists 16 buyers' checks, and prices

a 2004 1.6 SE at around £5,650 from a trade outlet.

■ Fiat Stilo (2002-present) – Roomy, good value, and cheap, says Tumbridge, and general unpopularity meant discounts at new – and that trend continues into the used market. Stilos, he adds, have lots of standard kit, and petrol power affords top value.

Most economical model is the 1.9 JTD 115, with its 52.3 combined mpg figure, and best used buy is the 1.6 Dynamic five-door.

UsedCarExpert.com has 16 pre-buy checks to watch out for, and prices a 2004 1.6 Dynamic at around £4,100 at a dealership.

■ Mazda 323 (1998-2004) – Spacious and well-equipped the overlooked 323 is a good small family car which is durable, and has better specifications than an equivalent Astra or Focus, points out Matt Tumbridge.

Most economical model is the 2.0TD, returning 55.4mpg overall, and best used buy is the 1.8 SE.

FOOTBALL

■ LINE-UP . . . members of the West Wrating Under-eights squad can still raise a smile, despite their 5-0 defeat at Great Bardfield.

CP.

United-bound Bill signs off in style

West Wrating U11 11 Wilbraham Warriors U11 0

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, DIVISION 11A

WITH long-serving player Bill Bush playing in his final game after being selected to join the Cambridge United Academy, Wrating rattled in some quality goals in perfect conditions.

Earle Lambert grabbed six with the pick of the bunch coming after a swift six-pass move between Stevenson, Bush, Scotton, Massie and the goalscorer himself.

Elliott grabbed his fourth of the season, while Bush slotted a brace and reached a total of 11 goals in as many games.

Ankers scored a 25-yard scorcher that was too hot for the keeper to handle, which will certainly lift his confidence.

The final goal came from a Wilbraham defender, who diverted Ager's pass into his own net.

Wrating's players of the match were Lambert and Bush.

Newmarket Town U10 B 1 West Wrating U10 Yellows 1

FRIENDLY

WRATING started the brightest against a team that had lost only once this season.

Charlie Ellam and Jack Harvey were the first to test the home goalkeeper.

Jake Murphy and Scott Bishop were a constant thorn in Newmarket's side.

A change saw Callum Dray take over in goal and James Woodward join the Wrating forward line.

A fine run from Liam Gibbs was rewarded when Charlie Ripp fired home to break the deadlock as the first half finished at 1-0.

The second period followed much the same pattern as the first.

Dion Whitrid constantly provided the ball from midfield to the forwards, who just could not extend the lead.

Matt Carpenter had a ferocious shot well saved.

With eight minutes remaining, the home side scored following a penalty.

Woodward saved the first shot, but was unable to stop the rebound.

Great Bardfield U8 5 West Wrating U8 0

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE,

AFTER three successive wins, Wrating travelled to Great Bardfield with the confidence of knowing that only a month ago they had beaten them 4-2.

However, it was not to be a repeat performance as the visitors were well beaten.

Keiron Lindsay's display was the highlight of the match as he showed his hunger for the game.

This result will bring the players back down to earth as they look forward to entertaining Hurdon Hawks on November 17 in a bid to rediscover their form.

■ With the ever-growing squad, another manager is required to run Wrating U8s second team.

If you are interested, please contact Jamie Grocott for further details on 01440 709124 or 07743103805.

Gunners notch up important victory

Newmarket Town U14 1 Grampian Gunners U14 2

CAMBS COLTS LEAGUE, DIVISION 14A

GRAMPIAN beat struggling Newmarket on Sunday afternoon at Scaltback Middle School.

The small pitch and the fact the visitors had only 11 players available, of which at least two were not fully fit, meant this was always going to be a difficult match for the Gunners.

Grampian scored the only goal of the first half with Jacob Brown heading in a Luke Youngs' corner – and not for the first time this season.

The second half saw Newmarket equalise, but Luke Halls sealed the match with a fine volley from a great cross by William Howe.

Gunners manager Simon Youngs said: "We didn't play that well, but I cannot fault the boys for effort, which was a lot better than last week. "Our aim for the season has always been to stay in this league and hopefully we can achieve that."

Grampian Gunners U10 6 Thurlow U10 1

GRAMPIAN lost centre-half George Mustoe with an injury early on, so a quick change around was needed.

Jason Moore and Bailey Cassidy slotted into defence and looked comfortable all game.

Gunners' wingers Toby Daly and Josh Matthewson were a delight to watch as cross after cross arrived for Jack Ferguson and Mitchell Forshaw to try to convert.

Daly went on a mazy run, beating three players, crossing to Matthewson, who arrived at the back post to hit the first goal.

The same player then crossed to Forshaw, who side-footed home.

Thurlow scored early in the second half with a half-volley before Grampian quickly replied, Lewis Whiting bursting into the box from midfield and scoring their third.

Forshaw scored the fourth with a shot on the turn.

Goalkeeper Lewis Knightly, who had a quiet game, produced a fine save from a Thurlow break.

Ferguson crossed for Matthewson to get his brace.

Then he picked out man of the match Forshaw, who headed home for his hat-trick from a corner.

Angels make it hard for table-toppers

AFTER victory in their previous match, the Feather Angels and their loyal following were out in force again this week, hoping to take points from top-of-the-table Glemsford.

The home side were able put together some solid passing, which soon saw them open up the scoresheet.

A lack of several key players in the Delaware squad soon was even more apparent, with a 4-0 scoreline to Glemsford by the end of the first half.

Glemsford Social Club 6 Delaware Feather Angels 3

TREADFIRST SUDBURY & DISTRICT SUNDAY LEAGUE
DIVISION FIVE

After the break, Delaware were able to get off the mark following an unselfish pass from Sean McCormack which allowed Richard Webb to tap home a simple goal, giving Delaware some hope. A mistake from substitute James Strachan resulted in the fifth goal for Glemsford.

Following this, two awesome runs from Angels' Sam Wiffin saw him collect his first two goals of the season putting Delaware right back in the game at 5-3.

A sixth Glemsford goal, however, was soon to follow ending the tie at 6-3, proving the home side very much deserve their position at the top of the league.

Delaware's man of the match was Wayne Ball.

Rovers a smash at Glass World

■ SPOT ON
... Marcus Hunt, whose penalty effectively ended any chances of Histon reserves staging a comeback against Haverhill Rovers on Wednesday evening.

AFTER the disappointment of letting two points slip at the weekend, Haverhill Rovers returned to winning ways on Wednesday evening.

Rovers, who were defending an unbeaten away record in the league, were somewhat surprisingly held at lowly Woodbridge on Saturday.

They responded by picking up three useful Ridgeons League, Premier Division points with a 3-1 victory over Histon reserves at the Glass World Stadium.

A trio of goals inside the first 36 minutes enabled Haverhill to hold on to their impressive record on the road with a decent win.

Stutes keeper Matt Cowell punched the ball into the back of his own net on five minutes to hand Rovers the lead.

The visitors then made it 2-0 on 19 minutes when Sam Green fed Nick Impey to volley home from 15 yards, before Marcus Hunt put a penalty away after Luke Upcott fouled former Histon player Adam Ben-Saud in the area on 36 minutes.

Histon did pull a goal back on 53 minutes when Jamie Barker scored, but, by then, the damage was done.

Against Woodbridge, Colin Vowden's early header was only worth a point after a dominant Haverhill were caught by a Woodbridge sucker-punch.

The veteran defender put Steve Taylor's men ahead in the 11th minute when his forehead connected with Wayne Goddard's long throw.

Sam Green and Ben-Saud tested the goalkeeper from distance and the latter was a whisker away from doubling the lead when he sent a shot past the post from a narrow angle.

Ben-Saud then struck the woodwork after latching on to Nick Impey's pass and the hosts equalised against the run of play from a free kick which flew past the stationary Arron Benstead on 74 minutes to make it 1-1.

And Ben-Saud tried in vain to head Richard Heller's cross into the net in stoppage time, but saw his effort fly over the bar.

■ Rovers play lowly Harwich & Parkeston in a Ridgeons League match at Hamlet Croft on Saturday.

RUGBY

■ ROBBIE HOLLAND ... only try for Haverhill.

Haverhill take a real pounding

IT WAS tale of woe for Haverhill, as they were heavily beaten, 73-7, by Thetford in Division Two of the Eastern Counties League on Saturday.

Conceding three breakaway tries in the first 10 minutes set the tone of the match for Haverhill, and they were then on the back foot.

Haverhill's consolation came through a try from Robbie Holland and a Jake Plumridge conversion.

Skipper Dave Quinney said: "It was just very disappointing all round.

"The backline didn't really perform and we didn't really get going as a team.

"Heads went down and we went into the break five tries down.

"We gave them a rollicking at half time and we started to play better after the break. We were getting the ball and defending well, but all of a sudden we went to sleep again."

Knight rides to rescue as Wratting nab point

West Wratting Youth U17 3
Aztecs Juniors U17 3

CAMBS COLTS LEAGUE, DIVISION 17B

WRATTING forced the early pace of this very tight game, with Knight and Warner both going close to opening the scoring. Blowes and Campbell were strong in the Wratting midfield, while McCarthy and D Bush worked well on the right hand side to make things tough for Aztecs.

McCarthy opened the scoring and, soon after, Warner hit the back of the net with a scorching drive to give Wratting a deserved 2-0 advantage.

Wratting goalkeeper Baker handled and cleared superbly, while Dashwood was dominant in the air, combining with O'Brien, S Bush and Tucker to keep Aztecs attacks to a minimum. The second half saw Aztecs rattle in three quick goals, all from set-pieces, before Wratting fought back to grab an equaliser through Knight.

Substitutes Thompson, Sayer and Farlie came on and played their part in gaining a deserved point for Wratting.

■ Due to unforeseen circumstances,

West Wratting U17 require a manager.

Anyone interested should contact Kevin Ager on 07769 706589 for further details.

■ LINE-UP ... West Wratting U17 face the camera before their 3-3 draw with their Aztecs counterparts on Sunday.
